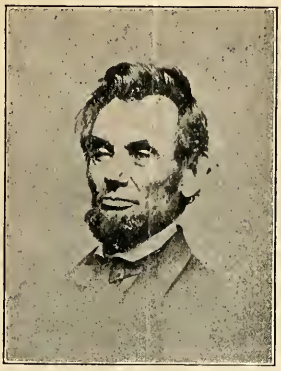
ASSASSINATION OF LINCOLN.



"THE ASSASSINATION OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, THE FLIGHT, PURSUIT, CAPTURE AND PUNISHMENT OF THE CONSPIRATORS."

WITH EIGHTY-TWO HALF-TONE ILLUSTRATIONS, HALF OF THEM NEVER BEFORE PUBLISHED.

BY

OSBORN H. OLDROYD,

Editor and Compiler, "Words of Lincoln,"

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY

BVT. MAJ. GEN. T. M. HARRIS,

Member of the Commission.

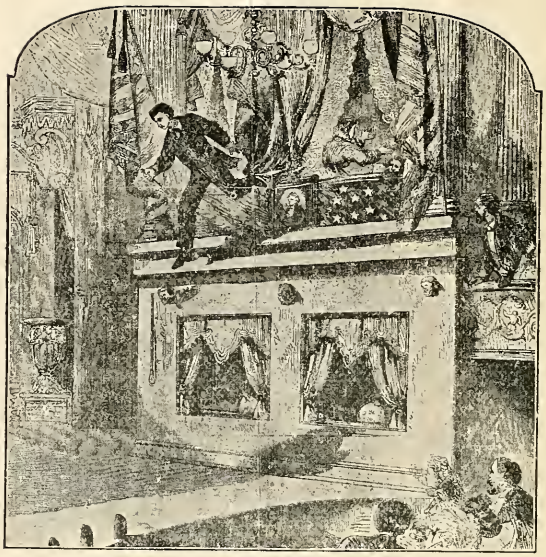
De Luxe Edition, 8vo., 316 pages, limited to 250 copies, and numbered, of which 25 are in sheets, the others bound in cloth, gold stamp, decollated edge; title page in two colors. Steel portrait of Lincoln by JOHN SARTAIN; two half-tone portraits never before published, and one of them appearing only in this edition. Portrait of the author, signed, . . $5.00

12mo., cloth, with portait of Lincoln, never before published, . $1.00

FRANCIS J. MEEKER

....Bookseller....

8 Academy Street, - - - Newark, N. J.



CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I.

Rejoicing of the loyal people, April, 1865. The restoration of the American flag upon Fort Sumter. Washington illuminated. Happiness and hopes of the President, Abraham Lincoln, April 14, 1865. The immediate political restoration of the States involved in the slaveholders' rebellion resolved upon. Warnings as to assassination. Personal message to the western miners and prospectus to be carried by Schuyler Colfax. Invitation to attend the play at Ford's Theater. General Grant's unavoidable absence. Last familiar leaving of the White House. The President arrives at the theater at 8.30 P. M., and is received with a hearty welcome..... 1

CHAPTER II.

Ford's Theater, its history, location and surroundings. Location of the President's box with preparations and decorations for his occupancy that evening. Booth comes to Ford's Theater to obtain and read his mail as usual. Learns that Lincoln is to be there that evening. A desperate decision is evidently made by him to accomplish their purpose that night. Booth's doings during the day. Booth in the evening, enters theater—shoots the President—scenes at the moment, and his escape. Statements of the actors and employes of the theater, and those present..... 7

CHAPTER III.

Calls for medical aid. Removal from the theater of the wounded President to a private house opposite. His condition during the night and his death at 7.22 A. M., April 15th. Description of the house and the room in which he died. The distinguished watchers who were present. Removal of the dead President to the White House. Arrangements for the taking of the oath of office by his successor. Andrew Johnson takes the oath at the Kirkwood House at 11 A. M., April 15th. The autopsy..... 29

CHAPTER IV.

The assassination of President Lincoln only a part of a general scheme to destroy the entire executive branch of the Government. The attempt upon the life of Secretary Seward by Payne. The assassination of Vice-President Johnson assigned to Atzerodt, who lacked the courage to carry it out. The doings of Herold. The part of O'Laughlin and Arnold, and the call of O'Laughlin at the reception given by Secretary Stanton, and other incidents. Edward Spangler and his preparations at Ford's Theater. Various plans as to abduction of the President, and other attempts. The arrest of Payne at Mrs. Surratt's, and of Dr. Mudd at his home. The probable flight of John H. Surratt..... 42

CHAPTER V.

Maj. A. C. Richards, superintendent of the Washington police, determined upon an immediate pursuit of Booth into lower Maryland, but was delayed. The pursuit by party under Major James R. O'Beirne, who traced the fugitives to vicinity of Port Royal, Virginia, and then returned for further orders. Colonel Lafayette C. Baker, with party, takes up the pursuit. The capture at Garrett's Place, Va., and the death of Booth. The march to Belle Plain, and return by steamer to Washington. Identification of the remains of Booth and his burial. The arrest of Mrs. Surratt. The confinement of Payne, Arnold, Atzerodt and Spangler. The credit of the captures and the division of the reward. Sketch of John Wilkes Booth and incidents of his career. Sergeant Boston Corbett. Thomas A. Jones..... 66

CHAPTER VI.

Funeral service in the East room. Lying in state at the Capitol. Scenes along the route. Universal grief of the people. At rest, at home.. 111

CHAPTER VII.

The assassination a military crime. Detail of officers for the military trial. Place and scenes of the trial..... 115

CHAPTER VIII.

Sketches of the conspirators: Mrs. Surratt, George A. Atzerodt, David E. Herold, Lewis Payne Powell, Dr. Samuel A. Mudd, Edward Spangler, O'Laughlin, Samuel Arnold..... 129

CHAPTER IX.

Records of Louis J. Weichmann, John M. Lloyd, John T. Holahan, E. L. Smoot..... 153

CHAPTER X.

Account of the execution, by George Alfred Townsend. Burial and final disposition of the remains of the conspirators..... 195

CHAPTER XI.

The continuous scheme of the conspirators. Various plans and attempts from the date of his first inauguration. Attempt at the second inauguration. Advertisement in the "Dispatch," published at Selma, Alabama, December 1, 1864. The acts of conspirators in Canada. Visit of Booth to Canada.. 212

CHAPTER XII.

Surratt leaves Washington probably April 14, 1865, arrives in Montreal, Canada, April 18, 1865. Remains in Canada until September 15, 1865, when he sailed for Liverpool. The United States Government notified of his arrival. Goes to Rome, Italy, and enlists in the Papal Zouaves. Arrested, and escapes from the guard, November 8, 1866. Leaves Malta for Alexandria, Egypt, November 19, 1866, and arrested upon arrival. Delivered on board U. S. Corvette Swatara, 21st December, 1866, and taken to Washington, D. C. Trial. Attempted proof of alibi, April 14, 1865. Disagreement of the jury. Again arraigned for trial, but discharged by the court. His lectures and statements..... 224

CHAPTER XIII.

Narrative of a walk over the route of flight and capture of Booth by the author, May, 1901. The start from the rear of Ford's Theater. Anacostia bridge; Good Hope Hill; Surrattville or Clinton; Tee Bee; St. James' Roman Catholic Church, and grave of Spangler; Dr. Mudd's; Bryantown; St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church; Dentsville; twenty-mile ride for Henry Woodland; Cox Station (Bell Alton P. O.); visit Samuel Cox, and shown by him the location of the thicket where Booth and Herold were secreted; drive with Woodland to "Huckleberry"; Popes Creek and Dents meadows; cross the Potomac river in sail boat to home of James A. Arnold; Gambo Creek; Mrs. Qusenberry's and Bryan, Dr. Stuart, William Lucas, Edge Hill, Port Conway, William Rollins; cross Rappahannock river to Port Royal; James Thornton; a chat with citizens; arrive at Garrett's farm.. 240

The eighty-two half-tone illustrations are from original photographs and drawings in the Oldroyd Lincoln Memorial Collection, in the City of Washington, in the house where Lincoln died, and over half of them published for the first time.

Abraham Lincoln. (Frontispiece.)
White House.
Ford's Theater.
Laura Keene, the star in the play of "Our American Cousin."
John Wilkes Booth.
Play bill, April 14, 1865.
Booth leaping from the President's box.
Booth crossing the stage.
Spur worn by Booth.
Flag in which Booth caught his spur.
Chair in which President Lincoln was shot.
Booth fleeing from rear of theater.
House in which Lincoln died.
Diagram of rooms in the house in which Lincoln died.
Death bed of Lincoln.
William Clark, the occupant of the room in which Lincoln died.
Secretary Seward's house.
Mrs. Surratt's house in Washington.
Reward bill for the capture of the conspirators.
Mary E. Surratt.
Lewis Payne.
David E. Herold.
George A. Atzerodt.
Edward Spangler.
Michael O'Laughlin.
Samuel Arnold.
Dr. Samuel A. Mudd.
John Harrison Surratt.
Capitol prison, Washington, D. C.
Garrett's house, where Booth was captured.
Diagram of Garrett's place.
Garrett's barn on fire.
Boston Corbett.
Booth being dragged out of the barn.
Post-mortem of Booth on the Monitor Montauk.
Saugus, the monitor on which the conspirators were confined.
Capitol at Washington City.
Temporary vault at Oak Ridge Cemetery, Springfield, Ill.
Play bill, March 18, 1865. Last appearance of Booth on the stage.
Commission that tried the conspirators.
Court room.
Diagram of court room.
General Hartranft and staff, in charge of the execution.
L. J. Weichmann. Important witness at the trial.
Reading the death warrant on the scaffold.
Scaffold—the drop.
Dry Tortugas, in which four of the conspirators were confined.
Green Mount Cemetery, Baltimore, Md., burial place of Booth.
Letter from Superintendent Green Mount Cemetery.
John H. Surratt, in the uniform of the Papal Zouaves.
East Branch Bridge, over which Booth crossed.
Mrs. Surratt's home at Surrattville.
Street in Surrattville.
Booth's vision.
Tee Bee, town through which Booth and Herold passed in their flight.
Gate leading from the road to Dr. Mudd's house.
Dr. Mudd's house.
House of Dr. Mudd's father.
Bryantown Hotel, in which Booth occasionally stopped.
Street in Bryantown.
St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, where Booth first met Dr. Mudd.
House of Colonel Samuel Cox.
St. Charles Hotel, Port Tobacco.
Allens Fresh, where Jones first learned that the soldiers had left the neighborhood.
Thicket where Booth was secreted.
Thomas A. Jones.
Huckleberry, home of Thomas A. Jones.
Henry Woodland, who assisted Jones in secreting Booth.
Booth's starting point to cross the Potomac.
Dent's Meadow, where Woodland told the officers he had sunk his fish boat.
Pope's Creek.
Gambo Creek, where Booth stopped.
Mrs. Quesenberry's house, on Machadock Creek, Va.
Gambo Creek Bridge, where Booth left his boat.
Gate leading from Port Conway Road to Dr. Stuart's.
Dr. Richard Stuart's summer home, at which Booth was refused admittance.
William Lucas' house, where Booth stayed all night.
Port Conway, on the Rappahannock, where Booth crossed.
William Rollins' house, at Port Conway.
Port Royal, Va., where Booth landed.
James Thornton, the man who ferried Booth across the Rappahannock.
Map of Booth's route through Maryland and Virginia.

71.2009.084.04457